

Army Fires Nike In Rocket Test

Feud With Air Force Continues

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (AP) — Army Ordnance experts fired their Nike guided missile into the sky above the southern New Mexico desert Tuesday and announced hours later that they hit a fleeting, tiny target right on the nose.

The Nike firings were part of a demonstration by the Army of its array of operational rockets, both ground-to-air and ground-to-ground.

Obviously nervous over the current nationwide controversy between the Army and the Air Force over the guided missile program, Army spokesmen said the delay in reporting concrete results of the Nike test was due to a number of technical reasons, including lack of necessary equipment by a recovery crew.

Earlier the Army had demonstrated to a group of 115 newsmen the powers of its ground-to-ground missiles, the Corporal and the Honest John. Both are tactical weapons equipped to take either conventional or atomic warheads.

Delay in reporting results of the Nike tests had Army officials and newsmen alike obviously concerned. Army spokesmen said that although this demonstration was planned many weeks before the current guided missile controversy hit the headlines, they realized that a good showing must be made.

Two of the pencil-thin Nikes were fired at a 11-foot radio-operated drone airplane 30,000 feet up. The Army did not say in its formal statement which of the two Nikes hit the target and gave no further details, except to say that holes were found in the fuselage and under sections of the target drone.

Army officials conducting Tuesday's tests emphasized and re-emphasized that the show was not put on especially for newsmen. They said these are standard tests.

FARMERS HAVE 80% OF CORN PLANTED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois farmers have planted all but 20 percent of their corn, the State Federal Agriculture departments said Tuesday.

Many fields are already germinating. The same is true of soybeans, which are all but 45 percent planted.

Last week farmers put in 3,400,000 acres of corn and 1,500,000 acres of soybeans.

Winter wheat and oats show promise but are shorter than usual. Cutting of the first crop of alfalfa was reported.

About 45 percent of the crop correspondents found a shortage of soil moisture. Moisture is generally adequate in the northeast and southern districts but throughout the central area "conditions have, to some degree, hindered the growth of forage and small grain crops," the report said.

Expect Missouri To Back Symington

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Democrats apparently are going to give Sen. Stuart Symington the benefit of a full-course run for their party's presidential nomination at the Chicago national convention.

With former President Harry S. Truman keeping a discreet hands-off attitude, Symington is scheduled to get the solid backing of Missouri's 38-vote delegation at a state convention here next week.

The convention action will put the tall, handsome senator from Missouri in a favorite son classification peculiarly his own. He will be in the middle ground of a prospective party fight over the school integration and other civil rights issues.

Resume Inquiry Into Missing Ransom Money

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A federal grand jury Tuesday resumed an inquiry into the missing Greenleaf ransom money.

Former St. Louis Patrolman Elmer Dolan and Mrs. Joseph Costello both entered the grand jury witness room under subpoena and presumably went before the grand jury.

Dolan, who served a prison term for lying about handling of the ransom suitcases after he and former Police Lt. Louis Shoulters arrested the kidnap-murderer of 6-year-old Bobby Greenleaf of Kansas City, now is working in St. Louis. Shoulters still is in prison on a perjury conviction in the case.

Slightly less than half of the record $600,000 ransom was recovered with the arrest of the kidnapers and only a comparatively small number of the missing ransom bills have turned up since then.

Mrs. Costello is the wife of the ex-convict head of the Ace Cabs Co., a central figure in the investigation of the missing money.

Guard British Leaders Following Cypriot Threats

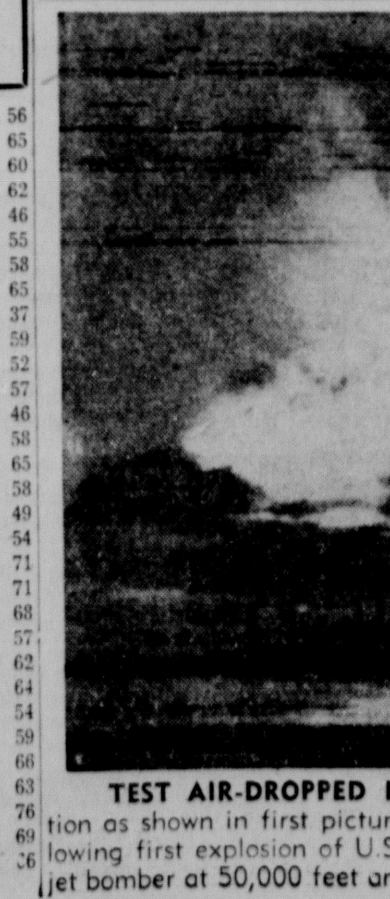

LONDON (Wednesday) (AP)—Rumors that fanatical gunmen from Cyprus may try to assassinate Prime Minister Eden and other British leaders were reported today to have brought a general tightening of Scotland Yard security measures.

(The New York Daily News reported two Cypriot gunmen have slipped into Britain to assassinate the Duke of Edinburgh. In a dispatch from London the News quoted Buckingham Palace sources as saying Cypriots seeking to shed British rule for union with Greece consider the duke a traitor. The duke was Prince Philip of Greece before he married princess Elizabeth, now Queen Elizabeth II, in 1947.)

The Daily Express said Scotland Yard's guard on Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has been doubled because of rumors that "at least four terrorists" from Cyprus have slipped through immigration controls.

Scotland Yard, traditionally firm on matters of security, has made no comment on this or other newspaper stories along similar lines.

The yard's special branch is responsible for the safety of British leaders. Even in normal times, Eden and his Cabinet members have at least one plainclothes bodyguard.

Teen-Agers' Beer Party Ends With Youth's Drowning

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—A teen-agers' beer party ended in tragedy at midnight Monday when a youth who couldn't swim fell from a rocked boat and drowned.

The victim was Jack Byron Yoakum, 17, whose companions told police they thought he was joking when he called for help. They ignored his cries, they said, and when his body disappeared they panicked.

Police said the youths had taken a boat from its moorings, paddled it about the lake with planks and began rocking it in fun. Yoakum fell out.

Six youths were being questioned. Police said the youths told them they had been drinking beer.

Texas Demo Convention

Johnson Emerges As State's Favorite Son

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas State Democratic Convention Tuesday night shouted approval of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, as Texas' favorite son presidential candidate and head of Texas' 56-member delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

The demonstration virtually guaranteed a unified delegation that will back the Democratic nominees.

In the last election, the Texas party machinery bolted to Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower and carried the state into the Republican column for the first time since 1928.

The 4,000 or so jam-packed into State Fair Auditorium came to their feet in a howling ovation when Johnson walked on the stage.

"Four years ago in Texas our banner had been stolen by the enemy," the Senate majority leader said, a reference to the party leadership's bolt to the GOP. "Today we stand on the threshold of triumph, one of the greatest in our history. We have achieved unity, we have restored the Democratic party to its rightful place in the hearts of Texans."

On the first test vote at the convention—on the issue of whether party leaders who bolted to support Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 should be purged—the senator won 1,306-424.

The vote was against the purge, thus following Johnson's plea for a moderate course and a harmonious coalition of conservative and liberal elements in the party.

To the ringing strains of "Dixie" and "Happy Days Are Here Again," delegates carrying signs supporting Johnson for president trooped down convention aisles.

The State Executive Committee is dominated by conservative followers of Gov. Allan Shivers, whose faction was ousted from party control by Johnson in precinct and county conventions.

The vote was specifically on a motion to table a resolution to purge the state committee of members who joined Shivers in bolting to support Eisenhower in 1952, and who now refuse to take a pledge to support Democratic National Convention nominees.

Liberal elements of the Texas Democrats have been thirsty for victory, and a voice in national party affairs, for years. They have been in the background during Shivers' unprecedented three consecutive terms.

Meanwhile, Texas Republicans holding their convention at Houston invited "homeless" conservative Democrats to again join the GOP. In a harmonious session marked by unanimous support for President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, the Republicans said conservative Democrats—ousted from control of their own party—belonged in the GOP.

Performed 7,000 Operations: No Medical License

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A man who said he never had been graduated from a medical school said in District Court Tuesday he had performed more than 7,000 operations on inmates of Minnesota state institutions between 1919 and 1927.

The man is Davis Stern, also known as Dr. Davis Stern. He is 69 and lives at a hotel here.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of practicing healing without a basic science certificate. Stern said that as an employee of the state he had performed appendectomies, goiter and stomach operations at the St. Cloud Reformatory, Stillwater Prison and mental institutions in the state.

John Garrity, assistant county attorney, said many details of Stern's moves were lacking, including how he obtained a post as surgeon at the state institutions more than 35 years ago. Garrity indicated there would be no further investigation.

Stern testified that at one time he was in charge of the Minnesota State Board of Health Laboratory, general disease division. He said that with the exception of 10 years, he has been practicing "healing" without a license in Minnesota since 1919. He added he lived in New York and Chicago from 1927 to 1937.

Stern said he had attended medical school for a short time at New York University and that his last year there was in 1907.

Predict 'Copter Facilities Will Triple In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—State Aeronautics Director Arthur Abney, sizing up the next five years of commercial air travel in Illinois, Tuesday predicted a tripling of helicopter facilities.

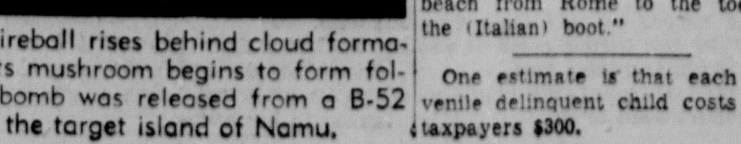

Abney also foresaw jet liners operating in the Chicago area and turboprops—planes whose propellers are driven by jet engines—serving downstate.

"Helicopters are much simpler and less costly to build than commercial airplanes," the director said in an interview. "The State Aeronautics Department and the Civil Aeronautics Board are studying ways to help in this building program."

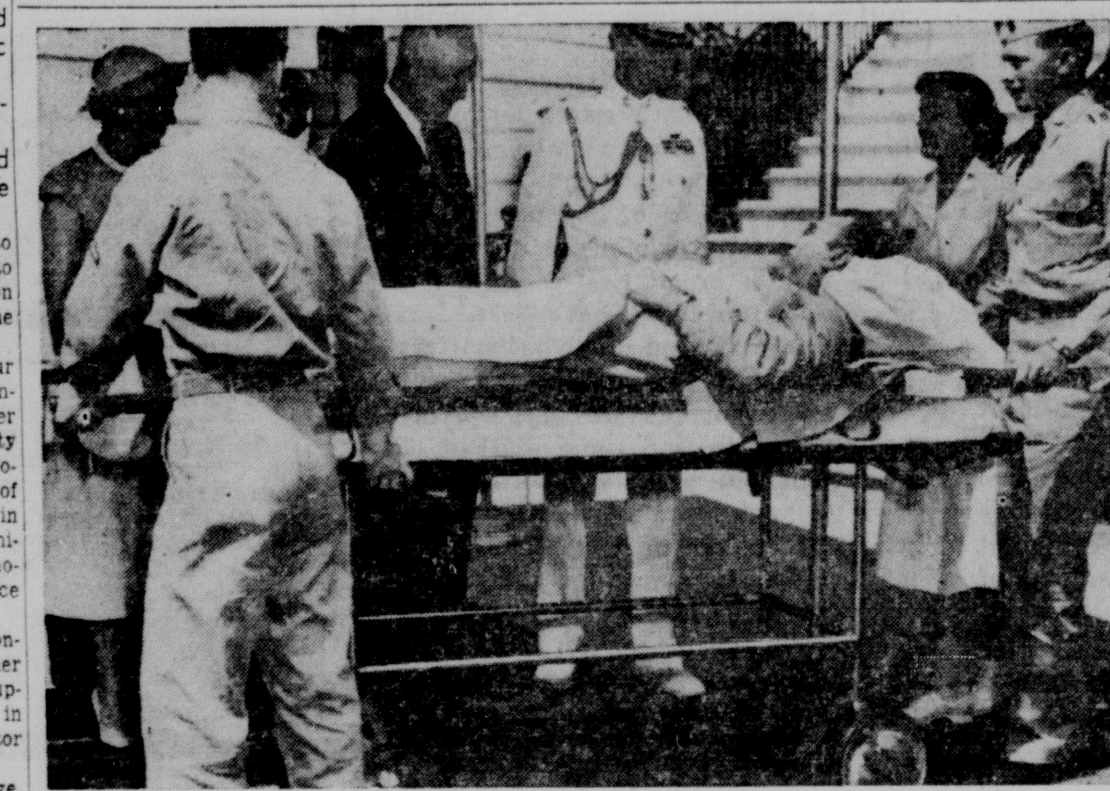

Helicopter Air Service, Inc. of Chicago has asked CAB authority to operate within 75 miles of Chicago. Abney said he believes the application will be approved and that service will begin with shuttle stops between the two Chicago airports and the Loop. The company has asked a $5 fare for such service.

A commercial air strip runs about 5,500 feet, he explained, but a helicopter strip requires only from 200 to 500 feet.

Abney said commercial airports are due for a "more modest increase" than helicopters.

Recommendations For Cutting Cases In District Court

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois State Bar Assn. announced Tuesday it has submitted recommendations aimed at reducing the backlog of cases in federal district courts.

One of the recommendations called for two new judgeships in the northern district of Illinois.

Another urged prompt appointment of judges when vacancies exist.

The report was presented in Washington Monday by Thomas S. Edmonds, president of the Illinois Bar, at a conference called by Atty. Gen. Brownell on congestion in federal courts. All bar presidents were asked to submit recommendations.

Edmonds also suggested that: Greater authority should be given the district attorney to settle certain types of cases.

Federal investigative agencies should be located in the same building as the district attorney.

Courtrooms in the southern and eastern districts of Illinois should be air-conditioned. The southern district courtroom at Springfield, air-conditioned but equipment must be turned off for silence during court.

Similar sentences in criminal cases should be provided for like offenses by permitting recommendations from the district attorney.

Committee Cuts Billion Dollars From Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee voted Tuesday to slash more than one billion dollars from President Eisenhower's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

The action was quickly challenged by Secretary of Defense Wilson, who appealed to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to restore the funds.

"I don't think the people realize military assistance is an essential part of our defense," Wilson told newsmen as he emerged from a closed-door session with the Senate group.

The House committee vote was 18-11 in favor of a Republican-sponsored move to knock a flat billion dollars out of the three billion Eisenhower sought for military assistance to overseas allies.

This was in addition to 100 million already trimmed from the $1,900,000,000 economic aid section of the measure.

Final committee action on sending the bill to the House floor is scheduled for Wednesday.

SCANDINAVIANS INVITE TOP RUSSIANS FOR VISIT

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Denmark, Sweden and Norway Tuesday invited Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party leader Nikita Khrushchev to visit their countries.

The invitations did not specify a time. A Danish Foreign Office spokesman said the Soviet leaders probably will propose a date early next year.

The premiers of the three Scandinavian nations all have visited the Soviet Union recently. They now want to repay Russian hospitality and hope to work for further progress in improving relations.

Report Ike Unhappy Over Discord Among Military Services

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson reported Tuesday that President Eisenhower is "a bit unhappy that we don't seem to get along better in the services."

Also Tuesday, two Senate subcommittees announced plans to investigate Army-Navy-Air Force rivalry, and Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said Congress itself may have to settle differences over basic defense roles.

Symington heads an Armed Services subcommittee which has been studying the relative air strength of the United States and Russia.

He was secretary of the Air Force under President Truman. The other subcommittee which announced plans for an investigation is headed by Sen. Chavez (D-NM) and handles appropriation matters.

Secretary Wilson talked to reporters after he and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, paid their weekly call on Eisenhower.

Wilson said the interservice rivalry seems to be "a rash that breaks out once in a while." He said emphatically he thought he could cure it. As for his next step, he said:

"We'll see who sticks their head up next. I think it might be a little dangerous."

Wilson had said Monday, at a top-level Pentagon news conference, that he did not think a congressional investigation would do any good. He said Tuesday he still sees no need for one, but that of course is up to Congress.

"We plan to have the high brass of all three services in here and ask them why it is they are bickering."

Actually, the top brass has disavowed much of the material which came out over the last weekend, purporting to represent the services' critical views about one another. It was reported that colonels and lesser officers were the sources. One Army document warned that current emphasis on air power would lead to "national disaster."

Symington said his subcommittee will call for testimony from the service chiefs "as to their position in the missile field." He also said it would study the Navy's role in air power.

He told a news conference it is the responsibility of Congress to appropriate money for the armed forces and "we have a right to had done for them."

Crime costs the United States 15 billion dollars a year, according to one estimate.

Prisoners Volunteer To Risk Cancer In Scientific Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ninety-six Ohio Penitentiary convicts have volunteered to risk cancer in a scientific study of the disease, it was announced Tuesday.

A call for 25 volunteers was issued Saturday in the Ohio Penitentiary news, a prison publication.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis said between eight and 12 volunteers will be selected by Dr. Richard H. Brooks, prison hospital medical director, as the first group to be injected with live cancer cells.

The cells will be injected into both forearms of each volunteer. The research project will be conducted by the Sloan-Kettering Research Institute of New York City and Ohio State University's College of Medicine.

Researchers hope the study will provide information on how the

Features Soil Bank System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate accepted a compromise version of the "second round" farm bill Tuesday, passing it on a voice vote and sending it to the House, where legislative action may be completed Wednesday.

The bill is tailored closely to President Eisenhower's pattern. Its big feature is a $1,200,000,000 soil bank system for paying farmers to cut down their production.

The bill was agreed upon by a Senate-House conference committee Tuesday morning. Prospects appeared bright for a favorable House vote and for Eisenhower's acceptance of the measure as a substitute for the bill he vetoed April 16.

Top farm spokesmen for both parties were lukewarm in their comments on the compromise during the Senate debate, which lasted less than an hour.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate-House conference committee, contented himself with explaining the provisions of the agreement and calling them "fair."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), senior GOP member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he thinks it is the best that can be secured at this session of Congress.

Asked by reporters earlier whether anything in the compromise bill might invite a veto, Ellender exclaimed: "No, great God, No!"

The senator reported "everything was harmonious" as the committee finished ironing out a number of differences between the bill passed by the Senate Friday night and the measure approved by the House May 3.

Ellender said the biggest trade in the conference was the Senate's agreement to drop its provision that the soil bank need not be put in operation this year in return for House acceptance of generally lower price supports for feed grains.

WRIGHT DENIED REHEARING ON TOLL ROAD BOND RULING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court today denied a motion by State Treasurer Warren Wright for a rehearing of the court's January toll road bond ruling.

The decision had cleared the way for sale of 415 million dollars in bonds.

Wright asked for rehearing of a court order that he deliver the bonds to the Illinois Toll Road Commission and take custody of the money the commission received.

The court also denied a rehearing sought by Dale Lange, a Platt County trucker, of its March decision upholding state authority to collect delinquent 1952 truck license fee increases.

Sir Winston's Views

It is good to be reminded that Sir Winston Churchill is still an active citizen of the world and devoting his brilliant mind to the hard quest for peace.

In Aachen, Germany, to be honored for his personal contributions to the cause of European unity, Sir Winston once again put his immense prestige on the side of what he likes to call the "grand alliance" of European nations linked with America and Canada.

Unhappily, he did not promote that unity as actively during his final incumbency as prime minister as he has done while out of that office. But overall his service to the idea of a united Europe—buttressed by the New World—has been distinguished and imaginative.

The coordination of the Western world in such dramatic and unprecedented projects as the Marshall Plan and NATO not only fortified free men against aggressive tyranny but gave them new notions of how they might work together for the betterment of mankind.

Churchill now suggests that if present Kremlin leaders are really sincere in their anti-Stalin movement they might one day be able to "join the spirit" of the NATO pact.

Inasmuch as the letter of that pact makes it a defensive alliance obviously aimed at the Soviet Union, Sir Winston can only have in mind the kind of general spirit of co-operative behavior which has emerged almost as a by-product of NATO.

Few knowledgeable world leaders dedicated to the search for peace would want to close the door to this prospect. But a good many might not share what appears to be Sir Winston's hope that the Kremlin's anti-Stalinism will materialize into sincere Russian moves for peace.

He does, of course, concede that it would be tragic for Western Europe to lower its guard for even a moment until Soviet sincerity are at hand.

Yet the burden of his speech is to encourage those who want to try for some sort of broad East-West understanding before Russia has offered specific performance on such vital matters as German reunification.

We have found in the past it is not too difficult to find some plateau of generalities on which we can co-exist with the Soviet Union. The test comes when these expressions of broad intent must be translated into specific action. Thus far, on the big issues, Russia has consistently failed that test.

Sir Winston occupies a place of esteem today which allows him to stress the ideal of unity which we could begin to fulfill if East and West could deal with full sincerity. But others charge with the practical management of free governments must place more stress on that "if" than did he.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Youthful addicts of rock-and-roll music received support from a surprising source today — Metropolitan Opera star Salvatore Baccaloni.

Here for his first Hollywood film role, the 5 by 5 basso sounded off in favor of rocking rhythms that have been sending the younger crowd and exasperating the elders. "That's music!" Ask the folks who have been reared on the more disciplined strains of Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller and others.

"Sure, that's music!" replies the lusty Baccaloni. "Anything that springs from the heart of the people is music, and that's what rock-and-roll is. It expresses the feelings of the younger generation. I like to listen to it myself."

"The trouble with older people is they won't accept change. Like when an American company was invited to play 'Porgy and Bess' at La Scala. Well, you should have heard the uproar. After all, La Scala was the home of Verdi and Puccini; they thought it was sacrilege to invite an American jazz opera."

"But when 'Porgy and Bess' played there, it was a tremendous hit. And why? Because people realized it was true music — it came from the heart of a people."

Baccaloni observed that rock-and-roll was nothing new. He illustrated with a few strains from

"Don Giovanni" which proved that Mozart was a pretty solid singer, too. The singer added that the current rhythms also stem back to the barcaroles of his native Italy, which got their rock-and-roll tempos from being sung in Gondolas. It figures.

It's amazing that Hollywood has waited so long to take advantage of Baccaloni's talents. Not only has he been one of the Met's leading singers for over 15 years; he has also been called the greatest comedian the opera stage has known. Columbia tapped him for a comedy part in "Full of Life."

"They wanted a man with a heavy Italian accent," he grinned, "and that's me."

DR. JORDAN SAYS

Though Annoying, Pain Is Often Useful in Diagnosis

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Pain is one of the most universal of human sensations. It is usually considered unpleasant but sometimes can be almost enjoyable, such as that which occurs with muscular fatigue or in certain sports.

There is enormous variation between persons in their response to painful sensations and indeed in the same person from one time to another.

I shall always remember, for example, the mortification I experienced when I was weakened by an infection which I am sure would not have bothered me nearly as much had I been of normal strength.

There is the story of the boy who was banging his head against the concrete pavement. When asked why, he replied that it was because he felt so good when he stopped. Occasionally the application of a counter irritant seems to lessen the severity of the original discomfort.

In general, it is astonishing how quickly even severe pain is forgotten once it has passed.

These are a few of what seem to me the extraordinarily interesting aspects of pain.

Some pain is actually useful in diagnosis or even in treatment. The pain which occurs with acute appendicitis, gallstones, coronary thrombosis and many other conditions serve as a useful clue to the physician in determining the nature of the illness.

If a person has a sore finger which hurts when it comes in contact with a hard object and is therefore guarded against such contact, this probably speeds recovery.

In many instances, pain seems to serve no useful purpose. I am, for example, aware of no benefit from the pain occurring when a tooth is ground for a filling.

It is said that in olden days those who had to submit themselves to a painful operation like an amputation, were sometimes hit on the head and knocked unconscious so that the painful procedure could be performed while they were not aware of it. I believe this was sometimes called Bulgarian anesthesia, though I do not know why.

Today all will agree that there are somewhat better methods in modern anesthetics for operations and in pain-reducing drugs known as analgesics. Practically all of us have received the benefit of these measures and would hate to go back to more primitive days.

In one recent discussion of pain published in the New England Journal of Medicine, the following sentence appeared: "Pain is also more easily borne when hope is high, when the end can be seen, when the reason for it is clear, and when there is complete confidence in the skill and competence of the physician." This seems like a thoroughly sound statement.

With past experience with pain, which almost all of us have had, and the virtual certainty of some painful episodes in the future, it is certainly encouraging to realize that tremendous progress in the relief of pain has been made over the years.

THOUGHTS

He that is of a proud heart stuttheth up strife; but he that putteth his trust in the Lord shall be made fat.—Prov. 28:25

To Move Stick-in-the-Mud You Don't Need Tow Truck

"If my husband and I do go anywhere together—which isn't often—I have to drag him. He goes out so unwillingly that by the time we finally get started I wish I hadn't bothered. All the fun is gone."

The wife who wrote the above has a real problem. It can't be much fun for any wife to go out in the evening with a husband she has to drag along, protesting as he goes.

It is bound to make her feel lonely, resentful, and less than at ease.

What can a wife do about such a situation which, judging from my mail, isn't especially unusual?

First of all, she can try to find out why he doesn't like to go out. Is he ill at ease socially? Are their friends actually HER friends, who don't interest him in the slightest? Does the husband think that the way they spend their evenings out is deadly dull?

Among those questions a wife may well find a reason why her husband prefers to sit at home night after night to having his wife accept invitations that include them both.

TAKE CORRECTIVE MEASURES

If she does find the answer, the next step is to correct the situation. A man who is bored with an evening of small talk might enjoy getting together with several couples to go to a play, see a movie, or step out for dinner and dancing.

A man who feels ill at ease in other people's houses might gain a lot of self assurance by playing host in his own home for awhile.

A man who is bored with one group of friends might enjoy another group with a wider variety of interests.

A man who is fed up with seeing no one but his wife's friends might be encouraged to bring some of his own friends home. It would give his wife a chance to get to know them and their wives.

It is wiser to try to find out why a man is a social stick-in-the-mud than to try to "drag" him places he doesn't want to go.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — What happened to the horse is what the Army, Navy and Air Force don't want to happen to them. They're in a cat-and-dog fight over the roles they should play in a future war. Each wants to be bigger.

But the conflict between them goes deeper than size or money; they don't agree on what a future war will be like or how it has to be fought. It's plain they don't know, that they're guessing.

Their dispute came to light over the weekend when documents prepared inside the services were made available to newsmen. This broke into the open a fight which had been going on for years inside the Pentagon anyway.

It might have been thought from President Eisenhower's statements about the kind of armed force this country needed that the military leaders were in agreement.

In his budget message to Congress last January Eisenhower said he was emphasizing "air, atomic power, guided missiles, research and development, continental defense" and a minimizing of "numbers of men by maximum use of science."

He has whittled down the size of the Army while letting the Air Force and Navy assume larger stature, the Navy through new carriers and bombers.

Now the Army challenges the future role of the Air Force and the Navy. The Air Force minimizes the role of the Army and swipes at the Navy, which swipes back at the Air Force.

The public has been told the development of new weapons is fantastic but, for security reasons, that it can't be told in detail about them. As a result it is bewildered about the nature and shape of future war.

Judging from the contradictions among the armed services over the effect of new weapons on one another, there is some bewilderment among them too. It would not be the first time it happened.

The horse, which had been the Army's main reliance for making fast progress, became obsolete only 16 years ago. And it took the German conquest of Europe to prove it.

The Army now seems to have doubts about what the Air Force will do in a future war: the Air Force doesn't see much place for the Army; and the Air Force thinks the Navy is getting too big for its britches.

The Army arguments: Since the United States and Russia are heading into a nuclear stalemate—where neither will want to hit the other with hydrogen bombs since retaliation would wipe out the aggressor too—then what place will the huge long-range bombers have? Or will the wars of the future—because of a nuclear stalemate—be small wars, like Korea, where the Army will have to do the main fighting? The Army argument then requires a bigger, not a smaller, army.

The Air Force plays down the role of the Army in the future and blasts the Navy with its big carriers and bombers. This argument goes: The carriers are sitting ducks for enemy bombers which can spot them hundreds of miles away with radar; Navy bombers are far more limited in range than Air Force planes and could reach only a limited number of Soviet targets and then only if the carriers could get close enough.

The Navy argument: Carriers can move around a lot more, and lots closer to enemy territory, than the Air Force bases scattered around the perimeter of Russia. This fight is just beginning.

Thinking It Over—

There are so many cars on the highways that driving is not as pleasant as it used to be.

In spite of the accidents we read about, driving has become safer as the years have passed. Safety glass, steel tops, safety belts, four wheel brakes, stop lights and scores of other innovations have done much to protect life and limb.

It is not the danger of the highway that is so disturbing. The upsetting factor is the people behind the wheels and the assistants in the back seats.

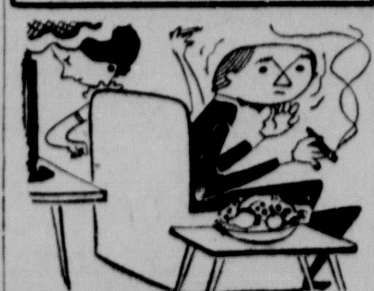

Many people feel that other folk should stay at home. Some drivers who are otherwise normal men and women become aggressive and dictatorial when traffic gets heavy.

Something strange happens to a lot of people when they begin to command a powerful motor. They want to step on other people when they are deterred from stepping on the gas. Have you ever noticed that the "other driver" is always wrong?

The Golden Rule seems to have been left at home in the haste to get moving on the crowded highways. There are so many gadgets and flashing lights on the dashboard now that it could do little harm to add one more.

A flashing neon sign could remind us that the other fellow is a child of God and that he has as much right to be on the highway as we do. Pray that God will hold your tongue. The other driver is also a child of God.

Manners Make Friends

Even though she doesn't smoke it is considerate of a hostess to have cigarettes, matches and ash trays about when she entertains guests.

That lets them know that even though she doesn't smoke, herself, she doesn't object to having guests smoke in her home.

It's Frightening Prospect

If the Women Take Over

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A preview of what politics and national presidential nominating conventions will be like when women take over completely has been given here by the Women's National Democratic Club.

It is pretty, but frightening. This was a repeat performance. "The Girls" had staged their original mock convention at a luncheon for women only. It was so good, they thought, that they'd put it on again in the evening so that Speaker Sam Rayburn and other male politicians could see how women would things run.

Example—stage a fashion show in conjunction with the convention. Have models parade down a runway half the length of the convention hall between nominating speeches, exhibiting "the latest" for women to wear to a White House reception, or play suits for sunning on the White House lawn.

Ann Chapman, wife of former secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman having been elected "Jenny" Democrat, played the role of the first woman to be nominated for U.S. president.

AND WHAT A JOB she made of it. Her platform showed what women really want in this world, and it's enough to make strong men but their heads against the nearest stone wall. Example—they want two corsages for every bosom.

It's the opportune time for women to take over," she said in her acceptance speech. "This is your opportunity to trade in the 'second sex' for a full partnership."

"Men say women talk too much. We are now in a position to show them we've only started. Let's make our voices an incessant howl heard 'round the world. Let's not close our mouths until the polls close."

"Begin tomorrow at breakfast. Show your spouse that he can no longer relegate you to the second section—or the second sex. Let us accept men into full partnership—and work together for a dollar that splits right down the middle."

THEN SHE REVEALED her platform, in a form that the regular conventions might adopt, if not the content. Women carried in actual blanks on which were inscribed in box car letters, these simple principles:

Joint bank accounts for all wives. Elastic supporters that really stretch. Overtime for all housewives. Unlimited conversation.

Then this mock candidate for the first woman president introduced her cabinet. They were just her best friends (naturally) and they were all women except for one man who was to be made postmaster general to carry the male. (Get it?)

Between presentations of these cabinet members designate, the ladies put on their fashion show. A bevy of professional models came out in creations that were supposed to be appropriate for the respective cabinet jobs.

FOR THE SECRETARY of treasury, Fort Knox gold and mint green with a working costume of checks. (Cute, isn't it?) The secretary of defense came out in a frilly pink outfit and announced: "Why spend money on armaments when all you need is an air of innocence. Innocence is the best defense and self defense is a girl's best friend."

The secretary of agriculture in gingham and mink announced that the school lunch program would be ended and the youngsters taught to raise mink so they could buy their own lunches.

The secretary of welfare offered every woman a trip to Florida and the models showed swim and play suits for her. A diaphanous negligee was modeled for the secretary of interior with the announcement it was an interior play suit.

The secretary of state was converted into a secretary of space who came out in a space helmet said to be suitable for travel to the brink.

For the secretary of labor the models all came out in maternity gowns. (Have you had enough?)

American Menu

Treat Poultry Reverently, Add Emphasis With Sauce

GOLDEN BROWN, skin crisp and buttery, these chickens have been cooked to a perfection which is the French genius.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

The Frenchman treats all foods with respect; but poultry with reverence. We asked Louis Vaudable, proprietor of the world-famous restaurant Maxim's in Paris to give American brides some of the French chef's secrets. Here is his advice: Learn to roast chicken as the French housewife does, for undreamed-of flavor. First, she chooses two small chickens rather than a single large one, each weighing not more than 3 pounds (broiler-fryers).

Next she rubs the birds all over gently with soft, sweet butter, and sprinkles them nicely with salt. She doesn't stuff them. She doesn't want outside flavors to compete with the bird's own. She simply ties the legs together, and the wings close to the body.

The bird's, arranged in a shallow pan, go into a preheated oven (450 degrees) to bake just one hour, or until the juices run out clear—not pinkish. They are brushed occasionally with more soft or melted sweet butter. When done, they are golden brown and the skin is crisp and buttery. Serve on a platter, binding strings removed and surrounded with watercress.

Of course there's a sauce! Like "love and marriage" the French sauce and the French dish go together. No hasty, last-minute choice, but a carefully thought-out decision.

A bland sauce, of a white stock base? Or a sharp sauce, mustard-flavored with just a suspicion of tarragon?

Whichever she chooses, she will simmer it long and slow, and finally add some of the cooking juices of the fowl.

The French sauce is usually thinner than the American. If you wish to thicken yours with flour, be sure to allow the flour to cook into the flavor of the sauce.

At Maxim's we often serve Sauce Champagne with roast chicken. Sauce Diable is tangier, the classic sharp sauce. It is versatile, and 21½ pounds.

takes nicely to the addition of curry, parsley flakes, and other seasonings.

With the poulets is served a crisp green salad, crusty French bread and succulent fruit for dessert. It's a meal that's just as much at home in America as it is in France.

TOMORROW'S DINNER. Mixed fruit cocktail, roast chicken, Sauce Champagne, asparagus with lemon butter sauce, mashed potatoes, toasted French bread, butter or margarine, endive and watercress salad. French dressing, coffee ice cream, spice cake, coffee, tea, milk.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
It happens every year about this time.

When Congress is studying appropriations for defense, stories begin to come out of Washington comparing various parts of the defense program with each other and with those of other countries.

We've heard it over and over again, this bickering about ships and planes, weapons and men.

The country thought right after World War II that some of it would be eliminated with "unification" of the services. Joint planning boards were expected to reach expert decisions on the role of various forces in the over-all defense picture. They were expected to approach their tasks on a thoroughly objective basis.

Perhaps it was too much to expect.

Now there has been an obvious attempt by some experts to go over the heads of their superiors, seeking to obtain public support for their special interests instead of accepting plans coordinated, or in the process of being coordinated, at the top.

This is only natural at a time when new weapons are creating new concepts of military tactics and strategy. Highly trained men, in important posts because of special abilities, see things being done, or not being done, which they believe effect the success of their assignments.

Gen. Billy Mitchell's crusade for air power is the classical example of this type of thing.

This year's interservice rivalries have developed not merely over money, but involve basic approaches to military problems. They are matters on which the public does not and cannot have the information needed to form sound opinions. Appeals to the public can only produce feelings, and feelings do not provide a proper basis for decisions on such matters.

There is a question whether even the specialized committee of Congress are the proper court of last resort.

It was argued, at the time of "unification," that the only way to approach these decisions properly was through establishment of a single military service, whose success would depend upon thorough integration, and in which the planners would be responsible not for one service, but for all.

In an operational way, this happens to a large extent when there is a war. Then top planners dispose of units of the various forces as they see fit. As a management proposition, it was considered unwieldy in times of preparation. It is also a difficult political proposition.

But if the services keep bickering the public is going to get the idea that, if somebody is right, somebody is also wrong in a field where the public demands that everybody be right. That could lead to another fight over real unification.

Hi

Have you had an interruption of your busy schedule with a telephone call lately. One where the person calling asks you to answer some simple question and if you do — and of course you can because they are so simple that only a moron wouldn't know the answer — you win a beautiful (so they say) portrait. As yet we have never used the telephone to ask questions and give away portraits and date on your album — a nice leather one, too — at no extra cost. We also are using double flash on the important altar shots which makes for finer portraits. The other day, I timed Bill just to see how long it took him to take the group shots at the altar. It was a large group of twelve and it took him exactly fourteen minutes and the results were excellent. On these hot summer days this is a very flattering thing because it means your guests waiting for the reception will not have to sweat as long.

WHERE CAN YOU GET THE BEST PORTRAIT AVAILABLE IN THIS VICINITY?

That is an easy one to answer: THE BILL WADE STUDIO — not only does Bill strive to get just the right expression and the most flattering light, the finished print is processed just the way he has been instructed by technical men of EASTMAN KODAK.

WHERE DO I GET THE LARGEST SELECTION OF PROOFS TO CHOOSE FROM? On Regular sittings of children and TUESDAY IS TOTS' DAY sittings you will receive 10 to 12 proofs to select from. The number of proofs to select from on adult sittings depend on the cost of sitting you select, for example, if you want only head and shoulder type of finished picture the cost is $2.50 and you receive 6 5x7 proofs to select from. Bill selects the one that he feels is the best of you and enlarges it to either a 11x14 or 16x20 permanent proof. Build-A-Book, Aunt Mary, and Contest sittings you have a selection of four proofs. There is never a re-sitting charge on regular sittings.

WHEN SHOWN THE PROOFS, WILL I BE HIGHLY PRESSED? We here at the Bill Wade Studio never use high pressure. We try to make your proofs so good that you will want to place a nice order. The person who wants a couple of portraits is just as welcome as the one who wants a dozen.

WHERE CAN I BUY PORTRAITS AND FIT THE PURCHASE INTO MY BUDGET? Here at the BILL WADE STUDIO you may use your credit and pay weekly, monthly or any other way that you choose. Make your own arrangements to suit you. We know that figures and facts tell us that 99% of the people are honest and will pay their debts — this is why we are not even a member of the Credit Bureau.

HOW ARE YOUR PRICES COMPARED WITH OTHER STUDIOS? Actually our prices are below the national average of all studios and far below the average of the studios producing the fine quality of work we do. By being a member of the Aunt Mary Birthday Club you may have your baby photographed for less than 9c a month. By taking advantage of TUESDAY IS TOTS' DAY you may buy your portraits for approximately 20% less than during other days of the week. By entering our annual CHILD PERSONALITY CONTEST held every July you get an 8x10 portrait of your child which regularly sells for $6. for only $2. plus special prices on all other portraits as well as a chance to win nice prizes.

WHERE CAN I GET GUARANTEED PORTRAITS. We guarantee our pictures to please or your money will be refunded. Twenty years from now and your portrait should turn color we will gladly replace. YOUR NEGATIVES ARE KEPT ON FILE FOREVER and you may reorder anytime.

There isn't any itinerant photographer who comes to Jacksonville that can answer these questions in the way we have. So before going to them why not give us a chance to serve you?

Aren't you going to have your EIGHTH GRADE GRADUATE OR THE HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE PHOTOGRAPHED? You really should as this is a big milestone in their life and deserves a fine BILL WADE PORTRAIT.

We will be glad to come to your grade school graduation and take the graduating class. Our price is very reasonable. For information just call me at Chestnut 5-5418.

Our candid wedding albums are better now than ever so if you are planning a wedding be sure and call us. Now we stamp the name and date on your album — a nice leather one, too — at no extra cost. We also are using double flash on the important altar shots which makes for finer portraits. The other day, I timed Bill just to see how long it took him to take the group shots at the altar. Hal Barton Speaker At Pike Banquet

PITTSFIELD — The Interested Mothers Club and the Junior Parents enjoyed a banquet and program at the Community Center Thursday night in a joint meeting, which was the final meeting of the year for both clubs. A turkey dinner was served to 36 members. Mrs. George Weibel, vice president, of the I.M.C. introduced Hal Barton, well known Quincy radio and TV personality.

Mr. Barton told many interesting experiences in radio and TV, especially those which occur behind the scenes and which the audience never sees or hears.

He also told of the great financial cost of a TV program as compared to radio shows, stating that a one minute commercial on television costs from 4 to 6 times as much as the same commercial on radio, due largely to the fact that a much larger number of employees are necessary. He also answered many questions from the floor.

Latin Students At J.H.S. Enjoy 'Roman Banquet'

Roman men and women are portrayed above by the members of the second year Latin class attending the banquet.

Bill Messersmith, as befits a Roman gentleman reclines on his couch at ease as "Caesar," (Richard Ommen) faces the camera.

In line with the theme of the banquet one of the skits presented showed Bob Davis as King Pluto, rear and Judy Turner as Daphne and Earl Powell as Apollo.

Members of the advanced Latin classes, 3rd and 4th year, who sponsored the 2nd annual Roman Banquet, pictured above are, on the stage left to right: Lois Henderson, Lorraine Smith, Patty Baptist, Barbara Scott, Sheryl Savage, Bob Davis as King Pluto, Sonja Souza and Opal Franklin. Mrs. Savage is standing in front of the pupils on the stage.

Fifty-five advanced Latin students at the Jacksonville high school attended the recent Latin Banquet served in ancient style in the school cafeteria. The theme of the banquet was "Visit to Orcus (Hades)."

Mrs. Ernest Savage, advance class teacher was in charge of the arrangements and Miss Ruby Mann, first year latin teacher was a guest. This was the second annual affair attended by second, third and fourth year latin students.

Food was eaten without tableware, as in ancient Rome. The menu consisted of one-half fried chicken, relishes, deviled eggs, corn on the cob, five different kinds of fruit, hot rolls and honey, the traditional "wine" and five different kinds of cake. The banquet was served in typical style with volunteer students serving as "slaves."

The program included an original story, Court Martial of Lt. Mercury, written by Bill Messersmith, Jr.; a solo by Bill Lyons, "Why Don't You Believe Me," sung in latin; an original story, "Day of Judgment," written by Mary Ellen Covey and a skit, "What If" in five scenes written by Bob Davis.

Identifies Oil Check Shown In Truman Aide Case

ST. LOUIS (P)—An oil company official has identified 25 checks totaling $1,418 as payments from an oil royalty to Matthew J. Connelly when he was appointments secretary to former President Truman.

The checks were introduced into evidence at Connelly's conspiracy trial Monday after they were identified by L. S. Hadley of Independence, Kan., secretary-treasurer of the Sinclair Crude Oil Co.

The government contends Attorney J. J. Schwimmer gave Connelly the checks to get help for Schwimmer's client, Irving Sachs, who faced criminal prosecution for income-tax evasion.

Connelly, Schwimmer and T. Lamar Caudle, head of the Justice Department's tax division under Truman, are on trial on charges of conspiring to defraud the government by holding up the tax case against Sachs. St. Louis shoe manufacturer.

vision, Monday identified exhibits which indicated he tried four times in 1950 to bring prosecution in the case but without success. A letter was introduced into evidence showed the late Drake Watson, when he was U. S. district attorney in St. Louis, wrote Caudle on Sept. 1, 1949 and remarked he had heard the Sachs case was "making the rounds."

Watson said in the letter the case covered the years 1942-45 and added, "I suggest the statute of limitations is now running on one of those years and will be running on another."

"It is not my purpose to try to influence your decision, but of course you realize that prompt action will be helpful x x x"

Sachs was fined $40,000 in 1951 for tax evasion but escaped a prison term on a plea he was ill. The government tried to introduce eight checks made out to Caudle on a royalty interest but Federal Judge Ruben M. Hulen upheld a defense contention there was no evidence to show that Caudle received the checks, dated from Sept. 15, 1950 to April 13, 1951.

OLD HOUSE ARRIVES LATE
CINCINNATI, Ohio (P)—The oldest house in Ohio, which sits in a wooded section of nearby Indian Hill, has been in this state only two years. Built in 1782, according to the deed, it stood on Main Street in Watertown, Conn., until Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Barrett of Cincinnati bought it in 1953.

After every brick, board and beam was marked on a master plan, the Dutch colonial house was brought here for reassembly. The oldest existing home built in Ohio was constructed in 1788 at Marietta, about 170 miles up the Ohio River from here.

Says Colonies Vital To British Strategic Needs

OLLERTON, England (P)—Singing out Cyprus, Singapore and Aden, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Monday night Britain will not "cast away those overseas possessions which are vital to our strategic interests."

Such a course, he told a political rally, "would be a breach of faith with the rising generation."

He mentioned Cyprus, Singapore and Aden as "three such places in the news just at the moment."

The importance of the British at Aden, a colony on the southwest tip of Arabia, was underscored over the weekend. Lord Lloyd, British undersecretary for colonial affairs, told the colony's Legislative Council no changes could be made in Aden's constitution because of its strategic and economic value to the commonwealth.

Talks on future independence for the crown colony of Singapore broke down last week in London. Britain has promised greater self-rule to Singapore but has insisted on control over internal security and defense of the naval base at the southern tip of the Malay peninsula.

On the Mediterranean island colony of Cyprus, Britain has been waging a 14-month fight against underground extremists fighting to end British rule and unite the island with Greece.

Lloyd told the meeting here Cyprus "is vital" to Britain for carrying out NATO responsibilities "and also to enable us to maintain our position in the Middle East and to honor our great obli-

Galesburg Still Bans Broadcasts Of Council Meets

GALESBURG, Ill. (P)—The Galesburg City Council voted Monday night to continue its ban on broadcasting of Council proceedings.

The aldermen voted 8 to 5 against reconsidering the ban imposed May 7.

Radio station WGIL, Galesburg, has broadcast Council meetings for the last six years.

P. A. Wilson, station manager, has charged that the aldermen took the action because they felt the broadcasts prompted Galesburg voters in April to change the city's form of government.

The present system of a mayor and 14 aldermen will be replaced by a mayor and four councilmen next April.

The second vote on the question came after Alderman Howard Jackson introduced a motion to reconsider, after presenting a petition signed by 600 Galesburg residents.

Station officials said they will seek permission from the new Council next April to resume the broadcasts.

Says Smoking Doesn't Harm Healthy Person

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (P)—Cigarette smoking doesn't harm the mechanics of breathing in healthy persons, and may even help, two Boston physicians said today.

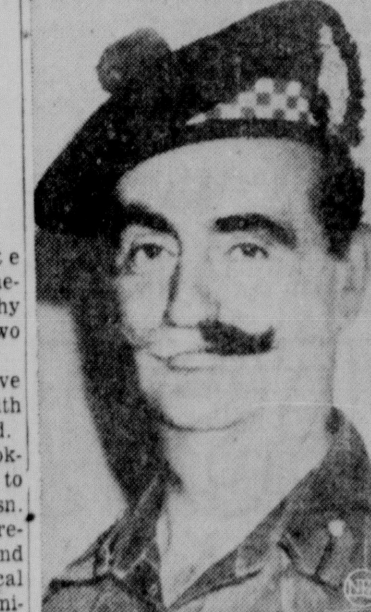

But smoking usually does have adverse effects on persons with heart or lung disease, they said. Preliminary results of the smoking study were described today to the National Tuberculosis Assn. by Doctors Ernst O. Attinger, research fellow in medicine, and Dr. Maurice S. Segal, clinical professor of medicine, Tufts University School of Medicine.

They measured the rate of air flow and air pressures in the lungs both before and after people smoked one or two cigarettes. Normal persons showed no significant change in the elasticity of the lungs or in mechanical resistance to the movement of air on taking or expelling a breath. There appeared to be some improvements in certain aspects of lung ventilation, Attinger and Segal said.

But in persons with heart or lung ailments, there was usually an impairment of the mechanics of breathing. It might be only temporary, the physicians said.

Polluted air must take some of the blame for the soaring rates of lung cancer, although smoking may be related to the rise also, said Dr. Leonard Greenburg, commissioner of New York City's Department of Air Pollution Control.

There is good evidence that cancer-causing chemicals come from exhausts of autos and other engines, he said.

PLAYING POSSUM
TEMPLE, Okla. (P)—Mrs. R. C. Nelson caught a mother possum and two young in her hen house, grabbed a club and beat them. She took the bodies to the city dump but as she was leaving noticed a sign saying there was a $50 fine for dumping dead animals.

She went back to pick up the animals but she didn't have to worry.

As she neared the spot she saw the mamma possum and two little ones walking away, apparently unhurt.

SAYS SCHOOLS NEED SCIENCE TEACHERS

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—Good scientists must be attracted to teaching to keep up with the demand for young talent, the Mount Vernon, Ill., school superintendent said Monday.

John Lester Buford told the national Congress of Parents and Teachers. "If every youngster with good scientific background is going to be picked off by industry, we just won't have competent teachers."

Buford is president of the National Education Assn.

WHITEMAN'S PA HONORED

DENVER (P)—The wards, honors and money acquired by Paul Whiteman, long known as the King of Jazz, are in his words: "nothing compared to my dad, Wilberforce J. Whiteman."

That was the jazz king's summation on a visit to Denver to participate in the dedication of a school named for his late father, musical director of Denver's public schools.

"He's been gone 20 years," Whiteman said, "and he is just as much alive as though he were standing in Denver today. He did more than I'll ever do. When I'm gone, nothing much will be said about me. But my pop? He'll live forever."

POTASH SAFETY

SANTA FE, N.M. (P)—The State Health Department says miners face no danger from dust in potash mines. It says a survey shows the dust is soluble and a miner would receive no more potash from breathing the dust than normally would be taken in to the system by eating an apple.

The Carlsbad, N.M., potash mines produce 90 per cent of the nation's supply.

Traffic Safety Committee Seeks Citizen Support

CHICAGO (P)—Staunch backing of traffic safety programs by citizens groups in 14 Midwest states will be sought at a meeting Wednesday and Thursday sponsored by the President's Committee on Traffic Safety.

Some 1,500 citizen leaders and public officials are expected at the conference, to stimulate active cooperation in safety by rank-and-file motorists and pedestrians—the persons most vitally affected by wholesale traffic tragedy.

The Chicago meeting is the third of four regional sessions conducted by the President's committee. Others were held earlier this month at Atlantic City, N. J., and Miami Beach, Fla. The final meeting will be held May 31 and June 1 at San Francisco.

The Midwest conference will be attended by representatives of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The primary purpose of the conference, as stated by Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp. and chairman of the President's committee, is "to stimulate the prompt organization of citizen groups in all states and communities in support of vigorous official traffic safety programs."

WADES TO DEATH WITH INFANT

WEST PATERSON, N.J. — A 40-year-old Russian refugee woman and her infant daughter in her arms waded to death in a pond Monday.

The bodies of Mrs. Rosa Thorment and 4-month-old infant Thorment were found after the woman's husband Boris returned home from work and reported them missing.

Passaic County park police said Mrs. Thorment left a suicide note to her husband saying: "I am taking with me, Putmat. My heart is very weak. I don't want to live more in this world."

Police said the note absolved her husband of any blame.

STEVE CANYON

FUNNY BUSINESS By Hershberger

THEY played out their game by rules long discarded, so that when the firing first began Frank Ude spurred his gelding beside Rambaut's mare.

Rambaut had been the only man of the crusty seven-man Cash crew to defend him. From that first shot he had been in trouble.

Later Frank found himself still fighting beside the man, and waiting for him to die. The horse string was 10 miles beyond them scattered past recovery. Through these last hours the suspicion had been growing they were stolen horses in the first place. They had been a curse to the outfit, had brought him to this point where he now lay sprawled across the sabersharp shale of the Signals with his carbine outthrust expecting the vicious impact of a bullet at any moment.

Frank Ude had not wanted any part of the fighting. He hadn't realized when he threw in with Emmett Cash there would be a fight. If he had had sense he wouldn't have joined this bunch. But his belly had been empty so that the smell drifting from their cook fire had been too great a temptation. Now the sooty blackness of the Signals choked down about him, veiling the canyon's death and violence. For the better part of 20 minutes he had lain in this rocky cup waiting until his friend was dead.

"Frank, you better pull out."

It was a voice so thickened by pain it sounded as though gravel rasped the speaker's throat. "Pipe down!" Frank murmured. A bullet clipped a response of its own against the rock above Frank's head, throwing splinters. He drew the carbine stock tighter to his shoulder and levered off a shot.

Half a dozen other guns immediately cracked in a rough semicircle around them. Frank Ude swore beneath his breath, sending three more shots searching after the gun-flame. Then he wormed himself across the still scorching rocks into the deeper darkness of the pocket. Didn't the heat ever lift from this network of rock? Didn't the night ever bring relief? The sweat rolled from his chin as he dropped down into a small cup-like depression. The raiders' guns were closer than they had been five minutes ago. He knew the crew out there in the darkness was closing in. Ed Rambaut's voice had drawn the fresh gunfire.

HE crouched on his boot heels beside the prone figure wondering how long before the man would die. Frank was a tall man, a thin and young man with dark hair and square jaw and a deep crease cutting perpetually between sober brows. Rambaut's breathing made a sawing sound as it sucked through torn lungs. Blood was leaking from the saturated patch he held against his bare chest.

Frank knew Rambaut was suffering for a cigarette. He wondered what difference it would make if he allowed the man one final smoke. The crew yonder knew they were here, trapped. They had worked in close enough now they could almost hear Rambaut's breathing. He jerked his tobacco impulsively from his pocket. Ed Rambaut's eyes shone with gratefulness he couldn't suppress. This time his voice had become a hoarse whisper.

"Wouldn't you have a chance if you ran for it?"

Frank lifted his shoulder resignedly, then bent behind a rocky outcrop to scratch his match. When he had the cigarette going he passed it to Rambaut, noticing how hungrily the lips received it. He said quietly, "Were they Cash's own horses?" Rambaut merely bent his mouth in a faint smile. "Where'd you ride from, Frank?" "Oh, yonderly. A man hasn't got an address when the sky's open and the land's free. You drift and pick up a chore now and then. When it's done you move on."

It was give and take between them. All day it had been a game between Emmett Cash's bunch, and he hadn't been able to pick up a thing about Cash. The horses had carried a small C neck brand with rather mark above the letter and this had deceived him in the first place into believing Cash to be honest. But Emmett was too cunning, too shrewd, and this together with the toughness of his crew had set Frank suspecting something was wrong with the ownership of the horses.

Then, tonight, the raiders now encircling them had run through their mess fire stampeding the horses. Camping so close to Fort McHenry Emmett Cash had grown lax about the manner of his guard. For gruelling hours after that the raiders had given them pursuit. Frank knew then it wasn't just horses. Someone wanted to see Emmett Cash dead.

Half an hour ago Ed Rambaut had grabbed his arm, yelling something about making a stand. Rambaut had taken a bullet that moment and they had been forced to hole up here in the cup. Just a sucker, Frank thought. Sitting here like a lame duck at a shoot while Emmett Cash and the rest of his outfit made good their escape. Crouched in a hot hole, waiting for a man for whom he knew no especial bond of long friendship to die.

RAMBAUT murmured, "You're no common drifter, Frank. I noticed that the way you been holdin' this gang off for a half hour."

"Who're they?" Frank Ude asked suddenly. But once again Rambaut's face tightened in a stubborn silence. "What's wrong with Cash? What's this all about?"

The man stared at empty space, the cigarette damp now with saliva and blood. He was sinking quickly.

"All right, if you won't talk," Frank murmured softly. He respected the loyalty of Rambaut. "Is there anything I can do? Somebody where you came from that might feel easier if they knew?"

Rambaut shook his head. "Get out while you can, Frank." He made a faint movement with his hand. "There's a cross canyon a couple hundred yards up ahead — back of that bunch of brush that hems in this slag heap. Fill my gun before you leave. I'll hold 'em off, Frank —" he struggled with a long and gagging inhalation of air, "— stay close to the bunch. Cash — ain't a bad fellow. Pair of you'd go far together."

He turned half ever in a sudden spasm. "Some of it ain't been worth it," he murmured. "If you get to Cashtown tell — tell Lily goodbye." Then he fell forward on his face.

The quiet pulse told Frank he was dead. Beyond the low rim of the cup he could hear scrapping sounds of boots and realized the raiders were about to close in. He bent swiftly, twisting the revolver free from Rambaut's fingers. "You won't need it, Ed," he thought. "Not where you're at now."

He slipped the extra gun into his waistband while he moved away at a low run. His other hand still carried his carbine.

ED RAMBAUT had murmured something about a way out of this dead-end sack. He wondered if Rambaut had known what he was talking about, or if he had been in his right mind. The rock towered above him in a gigantic, unbroken wall. Westward lay the wild breaks approaching the Colorado River, a country of sheer cliff and unbearable heat. Yet Cash, who had disappeared this way half an hour ago and somehow gotten through.

He sprang agilely across a five-foot draw that opened abruptly beneath his feet. Stone slid downward into the lower valley giving the raiders all the warning necessary as to the direction he had taken. Behind him he could hear the first man scampering into the cup. A pistol shot cracked and Frank hauled up dead in his tracks. A cold draft worked over his insides. A man didn't shoot another who was already dead. Not a man who was decent of the name. These were blacklegs behind him entering the cup that held the body of Rambaut.

Their fumbling attack in front of the cup led him to believe they were not as familiar with this country as Cash's men. Here again this supported Cash's story of repeated delivery trips to Fort McHenry to supply the garrison with mounts. On the other hand there remained his growing suspicions of Cash. Long ago he had come to distrust men with too-colorful personalities, for an honest man worked too hard to be entertaining. And Cash, with his flashes of rollicking good humor and his flame-red hair, was too intriguing to be genuine.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Charley Grimm plays the same old Milwaukee platter.

Bobby Thomson is on a sound ankle for the first time since the outfielder suffered the multiple fracture in the spring of 1954.

Danny O'Connell is hitting and getting on base as the lead-off man commensurate with the $75,000 and six players the Braves gave for the second baseman during the winter of '53.

Gene Conley says his pitching shoulder is OK.

It is to be hoped so. All that Sudsville enthusiasm is entitled to all this and then some. The trouble is that the Braves keep running second and third and still have the big Brooklyn club to beat in a better balanced National League.

The younger Braves — fellows like the phenomenal Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews — are a year more advanced, points out Manager Grimm. Perhaps Jolly Cholly is waiting for the Braves to grow into the pennant.

GRIMM STRESSES The fact that Milwaukee's farms are loaded like Ohio State in football.

The head man explains that Humberto Robinson and Bob Trowbridge are with Wichita only because there is no room for them on the parent club's pitching staff. The Braves have a coking stringer left-hander in Vic Rehm, serving time at Atlanta.

The field marshal rattles off names. Earl Hersh, the West Chester State Teachers' football player, is being converted from a first baseman into an outfielder in Wichita and definitely has big league possibilities.

The thought occurs that maybe the Braves' World Series club is still in the chain.

Still, with slack taken up here and there, this could be Milwaukee's year.

The newest hand up from the branch stores is Johnny Covington, recalled from the South Atlantic League and built like a blocking back. Young Covington requires a bit of polish in the outfield, but pinch-hits already have accounted for three victories and earned him the nickname, The Bat.

GRIMM SAYS That 24-year-old Ray Crone has come along to such an extent that he is now one of the Big Four which will become the Big Five when Conley is removed from the disabled list on May 26. Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl are additional competent right-handers. Warren Spahn gives the outfit the one needed left-handed starter.

Behind them are the right-handed Dave Jolly, Ernie Johnson and Red Murff and the south-paw, Lou Sleater.

Jolly looks OK again after a '55 season that was frightful compared to the helpful one of '54. Murff, the highly unusual 34-year-old recruit who had a 1.99 earned-run average winning 27 for Dallas, the bulk of them before the season was half gone, has had a bad back and was pounded by the Cardinals in his one start.

Chet Nichols, the phenom of '51, lost it in the Army, continues to disappoint.

"If Gene Conley pitches like he did without aches and pains, we'll be well equipped with what it takes to beat the Dodgers," says Charley Grimm.

"That's our principal concern — right-handed pitching and the Dodgers."

Wilson's Homer Gives Tigers 3-2 Win Over Yanks

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — Second string catcher Red Wilson, who had only six hits all season, crashed a two-run home run in the bottom of the ninth inning Tuesday and gave the Detroit Tigers a stirring 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

The dramatic clout which followed a leadoff double by Charlie Maxwell broke six-game winning streaks for southpaw Whitey Ford and the Yankees.

Frank Lary, who had lost three one-run games and had only one victory in six decisions, gained the triumph.

Lary restricted New York to three harmless singles after a first inning uprising when the Bombers scored both their runs on four hits.

But Lary came back strong and faced only 19 men in the last six innings—one over the minimum.

Maxwell doubled to open the Detroit ninth and raced to third when the ball trickled past centerfielder Mickey Mantle.

Then Wilson, who went into the game batting .250, sent Ford's first pitch flying into the lower left field seats for the victory.

Ford was almost untouchable until the Tigers reached him for three singles in the eighth and their first run.

Cardinals Tally Two Runs In Seventh To Beat Pittsburgh 6-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals scored two runs in the seventh Tuesday night to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 and snap a Pirate three-game winning streak. Stan Musial's single, his second of the night, scored what proved to be the winning run.

The victory went to Herm Wehmeier, his first of the year against three defeats. However, Wehmeier was relieved by Jackie Collum in the seventh.

Neither Wehmeier nor Collum could stop the booming bat of Dale Long, big Pirates first baseman. He had a single, double and a home run in four trips. The homer was his 10th. He now has a .411 batting average, highest in the majors.

Bob Del Greco, former Pirate outfielder, had two singles in four trips. He got his first hit in the second inning when the Cards scored twice on two hits and an error.

The Cards scored once in the sixth on a walk, a hit batsman and Del Greco's second hit. In the ninth, Ken Boyer doubled home another run.

Rip Repulski, Card outfielder, was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball in the sixth. He left the game in the eighth when he found he couldn't throw well.

BUY BONDS TODAY!

DETROIT (AP) — Because baseball is not a "prudent" investment, lawyers say the Briggs family must dispose of the Detroit Baseball Club.

In the past few weeks about 30 groups have expressed an interest in buying the Tigers and Briggs Stadium. But the more talk that circulates about the sale, the more it becomes apparent that Walter O. (Spikes) Briggs Jr. is searching for a way to avoid a divorce of the names Briggs and baseball.

The 44-year-old son of the long-time Tiger owner now is president of the baseball company, a member of its board of directors.

Although the courts never have ruled officially that the Briggs family must dispose of the Tigers, state talk reached the serious stage a short time back when a form letter announcing that the Tigers were ready to entertain offers went out to prospective bidders.

Before the letter was mailed, about 30 persons showed what Briggs called "some kind of interest" in purchasing the club. But now that would-be buyers must comply with several regulations—biggest of which is the placing in escrow of $250,000 to show "good faith"—the "offers" have dwindled.

Some groups have gone so far as to put up the money, but Briggs said he is not free to say who.

The professional football Detroit Lions have expressed what General Manager Nick Kerby calls "an unofficial interest" in the purchase of the Tiger franchise. The Lions would get the franchise, with the C. W. Post taking over the stadium.

Kerby said the 13-member board of directors of the Lions will meet "within the next week or so" to iron out "a couple of questions about financing." If the board can reach a solution, Kerby said, the Lions will get $250,000 in escrow in an official move toward purchase of the Tigers.

The senior Briggs and his wife died within the last few years and their estates still are unsettled. The vast Briggs holdings must go into a trust fund for the heirs. The family lawyers have advised that baseball stock is not eligible for such a fund.

Last year for the first time in about 20 years the baseball company paid its stockholders a dividend. Briggs said the club earned "about 10 per cent before taxes" on an investment of six million dollars.

Because of the trust arrangement, Briggs says he personally can't purchase the club. But a long conversation with Briggs, who has been close to the Tigers and Briggs Stadium since his early youth, proves two things:

(1) That he does not want to sell the Tigers, but feels it is inevitable.

(2) That even if another group purchases (as it is), he still would like to remain a part of it.

PCC Conference Slaps Fines On 8 Member Schools

By JACK HEWINS
VICTORIA, B. C. (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference slapped fines up to $1,500 on eight of its nine member schools Tuesday and tightened the strings on alumni and booster clubs.

Washington State College was the only school given a clean bill of health.

California drew the top fine of $1,500 and beleaguered UCLA and the University of Washington did not escape.

Already hit with a financial deduction of close to $95,000, the University of California at Los Angeles drew an additional fine of $350. Washington, which stands to lose $52,000 in Rose Bowl money while on two-year probation, has to dig up $250 for minor violations under Tuesday's ruling.

The fines followed by a day the latest crackdown on UCLA, which deprives all Bruin football players of one year of eligibility, unless they can prove themselves innocent of athletic code violations.

California was nicked Tuesday for "improper issue of complimentary tickets; irregularities in campus labor program for student athletes; off-campus interview."

There was no further elaboration of the charges in the official conference statement.

Idaho was fined $1,000 for "irregularities in the campus labor program for student athletes; Oregon State was charged $650. Southern California $500, Oregon $350 and Stanford $250 for similar offenses.

In addition, however, the conference directed Southern California to return $25,000 of grant-in-aid contribution to one unnamed donor.

The statement said the conference concluded this money "was raised by methods possibly not conforming to conference rules and policies."

The ruling on booster and alumni clubs made it necessary for all of them to open their books to the school they support and to the conference.

In Los Angeles Tuesday UCLA Chancellor Raymond B. Allen termed "retreatism" the avalanche of criticism that has followed penalties handed the school's football forces.

"Nothing in the long run," said Allen, "could do the Los Angeles campus more harm."

The protests came from UCLA students, fans and local sports writers.

"It is regrettable that well-meaning UCLA supporters have attacked the united campuses of the University of California, Allen said.

Some UCLA alumni have called for a breakup of the University of California and for a separate president and Board of Regents for UCLA at Berkeley.

George Ratterman and Vito Parilli are listed as quarterbacks for the Cleveland Browns now that Otto Graham has left the sport.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The University of Illinois baseball team rolled to a 11-1 victory Tuesday over Illinois Wesleyan in the last home game of the season for the Illini.

John Vayda led the winners with three hits, one of them a home run. Jim Bickhaus, the second of four pitchers, got credit for the victory.

The Illini now have a 14-14 record with 3 Big Ten games remaining.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Charley Grimm plays the same old Milwaukee platter.

Bobby Thomson is on a sound ankle for the first time since the outfielder suffered the multiple fracture in the spring of 1954.

Danny O'Connell is hitting and getting on base as the lead-off man commensurate with the $75,000 and six players the Braves gave for the second baseman during the winter of '53.

Gene Conley says his pitching shoulder is OK.

It is to be hoped so. All that Sudsville enthusiasm is entitled to all this and then some. The trouble is that the Braves keep running second and third and still have the big Brooklyn club to beat in a better balanced National League.

The younger Braves — fellows like the phenomenal Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews — are a year more advanced, points out Manager Grimm. Perhaps Jolly Cholly is waiting for the Braves to grow into the pennant.

GRIMM STRESSES THE fact that Milwaukee's farms are loaded like Ohio State in football.

The head man explains that Humberto Robinson and Bob Trowbridge are with Wichita only because there is no room for them on the parent club's pitching staff. The Braves have a coking stringbean left-hander in Vic Rehm, serving time at Atlanta.

The field marshal rattles off names. Earl Hersh, the West Chester State Teachers' football player, is being converted from a first baseman into an outfielder in Wichita and definitely has big league possibilities.

The thought occurs that maybe the Braves' World Series club is still in the chain.

Still, with slack taken up here and there, this could be Milwaukee's year.

The newest hand up from the branch stores is Johnny Covington, recalled from the South Atlantic League and built like a blocking back. Young Covington requires a bit of polish in the outfield, but pinch-hits already have accounted for three victories and earned him the nickname, The Bat.

GRIMM SAYS THAT 24-year-old Ray Crone has come along to such an extent that he is now one of the Big Four which will become the Big Five when Conley is removed from the disabled list on May 26. Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl are additional competent right-handers. Warren Spahn gives the outfit the one needed left-handed starter.

Behind them are the right-handed Dave Jolly, Ernie Johnson and Red Murff and the south-paw, Lou Sleater.

Jolly looks OK again after a '55 season that was frightful compared to the helpful one of '54. Murff, the highly unusual 34-year-old recruit who had a 1.99 earned-run average winning 27 on May 26, the bulk of them before the season was half gone, has had a bad back and was pounded by the Cardinals in his one start.

Chet Nichols, the phenom of '51, lost it in the Army, continues to disappoint.

"If Gene Conley pitches like he did without aches and pains, we'll be well equipped with what it takes to beat the Dodgers," says Charley Grimm.

"That's our principal concern — right-handed pitching and the Dodgers."

Ashland Little League Gets Underway On June 1

ASHLAND — Seven local men have volunteered to serve as Board of Directors for the Ashland Little League, that will compete with teams from Chandler, Oakford and Tallula. Play opens the first week of June.

Those who make up the board are: Moulton Fulton, president; Charles A. Forman, vice president; George Sudeth, secretary; Jim Riggs, Carl Orne, M. O. Challman and Elmer Bendles, members. Tom Price was elected treasurer and will not act on the board.

Rev. Chalmers has stenciled forms and they have been handed out to the boys at the grade school so that all youngsters interested may fill out the forms and get parent's consent in order that the cards can be pooled and uniform sizes known.

Glenn Hillen and Tom Price have been given the task to purchase the uniforms, several bids already having been received from the sporting goods stores in Springfield and Jacksonville. Money thus far received will go to buy thirty Little League uniforms to outfit two teams.

Those who donated the past week were Fred Hexter, Jr., Ed Nollsch, Jim Riggs, Karl Hager, M. O. Challman and Ralph Weber.

The Little League has had two practices with much interest being shown. Bob Aggert and R.

J. Reynolds have volunteered to manage one of the teams. Any one else who would like to manage or help manage a team, contact anyone of the board members.

The schedule for this season is as follows: June 1: Ashland Yankees vs. Ashland Cardinals; June 4: Oakford at Ashland Yankees; June 5: Ashland Cardinals at Chandler; June 7: Chandlerville at Oakford; June 8: Ashland Yankees at Tallula; June 11: Tallula at Ashland Yankees; June 13: Oakford at Chandler; June 15: Tallula at Ashland Cardinals; June 18: Chandlerville at Ashland Yankees; June 19: Oakford at Ashland Cardinals; June 20: Ashland Yankees at Chandler; June 21: Tallula at Oakford; June 22: Ashland Cardinals at Tallula; June 25: Ashland Cardinals at Ashland Yankees; June 26: Tallula at Chandler; June 28: Ashland Cardinals at Oakford; June 29: Ashland Cardinals at Oakford; Chandlerville at Ashland Cards.

NEW YORK (AP) — Powered by Frank Robinson's home run, double and single, the Cincinnati Redlegs rallied to overcome the New York Giants 6-3 Tuesday and move into the thick of the battle for first place in the scrambled National League pennant race.

Robinson, a rookie outfielder, thus made it possible for Joe Nuxhall to register his first victory of the year. The veteran southpaw, who had lost his first three decisions, permitted only four hits, walked a couple and struck out five.

Ruben Gomez started for the Giants and turned in an admirable performance for five innings. He had a one-hit shutout and a 3-0 lead until the sixth when a double and an error gave the Reds two runs.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Because baseball is not a "prudent" investment, lawyers say the Briggs family must dispose of the Detroit Baseball Co.

In the past few weeks about 30 groups have expressed an interest in buying the Tigers and Briggs Stadium. But the more talk that circulates about the sale, the more it becomes apparent that Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr. is searching for a way to avoid a divorce of the names Briggs and baseball.

The 44-year-old son of the long-time Tiger owner now is president of the baseball company, a member of its board of directors. Although the courts never have ruled officially that the Briggs family must dispose of the Tigers, sale talk reached the serious stage a short time back when a form letter announcing that the Tigers were ready to entertain offers went out to prospective bidders.

Before the letter was mailed, about 25 persons showed what Briggs called "some kind of interest" in purchasing the club. But now that would-be buyers must comply with several regulations—biggest of which is the placing in escrow of $250,000 to show "good faith"—the "offers" have dwindled.

Some groups have gone so far as to put up the money, but Briggs said he is not free to say who.

Wilson's Homer Gives Tigers 3-2 Win Over Yanks

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — Second string catcher Red Wilson, who had only six hits all season, crashed a two-run home run in the bottom of the ninth inning Tuesday and gave the Detroit Tigers a stirring 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

The dramatic clout which followed a leadoff double by Charlie Maxwell broke six-game winning streaks for southpaw Whitey Ford and the Yankees.

Frank Lary, who had lost three one-run games and had only one victory in six six decisions, gained the triumph.

Lary restricted New York to three harmless singles after a first inning uprising when the Bombers scored both their runs on four hits.

But Lary came back strong and faced only 19 men in the last six innings—one over the minimum.

Maxwell doubled to open the Detroit ninth and raced to third when the ball trickled past centerfielder Mickey Mantle.

Then Wilson, who went into the game batting .250, sent Ford's first pitch flying into the lower left field seats for the victory.

Ford was almost untouchable until the Tigers reached him for three singles in the eighth and their first run.

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals scored two runs in the seventh Tuesday night to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 and snap a Pirate three-game winning streak. Stan Musial's single, his second of the night, scored what proved to be the winning run.

The victory went to Herm Wehmeier, his first of the year against three defeats. However, Wehmeier was relieved by Jackie Collum in the seventh.

Neither Wehmeier nor Collum could stop the booming bat of Dale Long, big Pirates first baseman. He had a single, double and a home run in four trips. The homer was his 10th. He now has a .411 batting average, highest in the majors.

Bob Del Greco, former Pirate outfielder, had two singles in four trips. He got his first hit in the second inning when the Cards scored twice on two hits and an error.

The Cards scored once on the sixth on a walk, a hit batsman and Del Greco's second hit. In the ninth, Ken Boyer doubled home another run.

Rip Repulski, Card outfielder, was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball in the sixth. He left the game in the eighth when he found he couldn't throw well.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference slapped fines up to $1,500 on eight of its nine member schools Tuesday and tightened the strings on alumni and booster clubs.

Washington State College was the only school given a clean bill of health.

California drew the top fine of $1,550 and beleaguered UCLA and the University of Washington did not escape.

Already hit with a financial deduction of close to $95,000, the University of California at Los Angeles drew an additional fine of $350, Washington, which stands to lose $32,000 in Rose Bowl money while on two-year probation, has to dig up $250 for minor violations under Tuesday's ruling.

The fines followed by a day the latest crackdown on UCLA, which deprives all Bruin football players of one year of eligibility, unless they can prove themselves innocent of athletic code violations.

There was no further elaboration of the charges in the official conference statement. Idaho was fined $1,000 for "irregularities in the campus labor program for student athletes; Oregon State was charged $650, Southern California $500, Oregon $350 and Stanford $250 for similar offenses.

In addition, however, the conference directed Southern California to return $25,000 of grant-in-aid contribution to one unnamed donor.

The statement said the conference concluded this money "was raised by methods possibly not conforming to conference rules and policies."

The ruling on booster and alumni clubs made it necessary for all of them to open their books to the school they support and to the conference.

In Los Angeles Tuesday UCLA Chancellor Raymond B. Allen termed "retreatable" the avalanche of criticism that has followed the penalties handed the school's football coaches.

"Nothing in the long run," said Allen, "could do the Los Angeles campus more harm."

The protests came from UCLA students, fans and local sports writers.

"It is regrettable that well-meaning UCLA supporters have attacked the united campuses of the University of California, Allen said.

Some UCLA alumni have called for a breakup of the University of California and for a separate president and Board of Regents for UCLA at Berkeley.

George Ratterman and Vito Parilli are listed as quarterbacks for the Cleveland Browns now that Otto Graham has left the sport.

Milwaukee Drops Brooks 7-3 With 13-Hit Barrage

BROOKLYN (AP) — Home runs by Johnny Logan, Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron, who also banded a double and two singles in a 13-hit barrage, powered the National League leading Milwaukee Braves to a 7-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday night.

The defeat, second straight for Carl Erskine since he pitched his no-hitter May 12, dropped the Brooks to fourth place.

Right-hander Bob Buhl, who also defeated Erskine in the only other meeting this season between the two pennant contenders, picked up his third victory against two defeats, but needed help.

GRAINS SELL LOWER WITH EXCEPTION OF OATS, OLD CROP CORN

CHICAGO (U)—Oats and old crop corn ended firm but everything else was lower on the Board of Trade Tuesday.

Losses in soybeans were large, particularly in the July and September months. There also were some pretty hefty mark-downs in wheat and rye. July oats and July corn scored fair-sized gains.

Wheat finished 1 1/4 to 2 cents lower, corn 1 1/4 lower to 1 1/2 higher, oats unchanged to 1 1/2 higher, rye 2 1/4 to 3 cents lower, soybeans 4 to 8 1/2 lower and lard 32 to 42 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Selling in wheat largely reflected expansion of the harvest, although it still is some weeks away from becoming heavy.

Shortly before the market closed the Weather Bureau came out with its weekly crop report. The report was not very favorable on wheat.

July soybeans was sold early by those who believed this future was at too great a premium over the new crop months. Later, selling spread to all other deliveries. Cash for good to low choice. A few soybean oil and meal were a little lower while the futures suffered a sharp drop.

Buying in old crop corn followed news the House-Senate conference had agreed to eliminate from the farm bill an amendment permitting the Agriculture Department to sell up to 100 million bushels of low grade wheat annually for livestock feed.

Oats were bought by those who felt the hot weather would cause crop deterioration.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (U)—Industrials and investment quality issues declined in a generally lower bond market Tuesday. Rates and utilities were narrowly mixed.

U. S. Treasury obligations advanced in quiet trading in the over-the-counter market. Volume increased to $4,150,000 par value from $3,500,000 Monday.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (U)—Prices wilted again in the stock market Tuesday, this time for the biggest decline since May 10.

For the most part, the performance was a slow sell-off during process, with increased activity in two bursts of selling. Volume lessened whenever prices firmed.

Pivotal issues declined from about $1 to $4 but slightly improved at the close from their worst of the session. Once again, Wall Street observers ascribed the drop to technical reasons in the absence of any bearish news of consequence while the session was in progress.

News that Ford Motor Co. would halt operations in three plants in the Cleveland area for two days came too late to affect that stock which did little during the day, closing off 1/4 at 54 1/2. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.40 to $181.10, its lowest point since March 1 when it stood at $180.10. The industrials were down $3.70, the rails $2.20 and the utilities 30 cents.

Volume, at a moderate 2,960,000 shares, compared with 1,940,000 Monday.

The market, according to analysts, was still seeking its floor from which either to rebound upwards or else to go down further to establish a lower floor for a rally.

The decline on average represented an estimated loss of $2,800,000,000 in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market was lower from the start by fractions to around $1. In the second hour came the first sinking spell which brought losses on pivotal issues to as much as $3. The second sharp sell-off came in the third hour. Henceforth, activity was quiet and there was a little improvement.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange declined in active trading. Volume totaled 910,000 shares compared with 750,000 Monday.

Report Ike Unhappy Over Discord Among Military Services

know what is being done with that money."

He said he would make public everything he could without endangering national security.

Some Air Force sources have spread the word that the Army's Nike antiaircraft weapon is a poor defense, but Secretary of the Air Force Quarles disputed this Monday. There has also been some Air Force criticism of the Navy's claim to an important role in strategic air striking power.

The Navy has developed a missile called the Talos which has found favor in the Air Force.

Gen. James M. Gavin, assistant Army chief of staff for research and development, told reporters at Symington's news conference that the Talos was "a splendid weapon for its purpose—to serve the Navy at sea."

Gavin indicated he would not put much faith in a joint test of the Nike and Talos. "One shot doesn't prove much," he said, adding that Pentagon weapons evaluators could make a clearer comparison.

Expect Missouri To Back Symington

he could do so if he chose. Instead, Missourians seem to think he will be playing an elder statesman role—much as he did in the designation at the convention. This would involve consultation with national party leaders who worked with him in the 1948 and 1952 conventions.

Four years ago Truman gave his support to Stevenson and the former Illinois governor won the nomination. Although he said four times publicly that Stevenson was his man for 1956, Truman subsequently drew back into a neutral role.

While he has shown some signs in recent months of favoring Harriman, Truman's Missouri friends are not convinced he has any intention of going to bat for the New York governor unless he sees a clear chance for Harriman's nomination.

Instead, associates believe Truman will keep his own counsel until he decides whether he thinks Stevenson will make the grade. They see him as a possible supporter of Stevenson but an adamant opponent of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Gray Will Ask $75,000 For Canal Project Study

WASHINGTON (U)—Rep. Gray (D-Ill.) said he will ask the House today to vote $75,000 for an Army engineer study of a proposed 30 million dollar canal project in southern Illinois.

The plan calls for deepening the Big Muddy River from proposed Rend Lake in Franklin County to its junction with the Mississippi River. This would make a 60-mile long canal.

Opening the Big Muddy to navigation, Gray said, would allow southern Illinois coal to move from the fields by barge, reducing transportation costs 25 per cent below rail costs.

A bill providing money for Army engineers' projects in the year starting July 1 comes to the House floor today. Gray said he will offer an amendment to provide funds for the Big Muddy study.

HOSPITALS TO GET FORD CHECKS

NEW YORK (U)—The Ford Foundation is making its second payment in its 200 million dollar program to help voluntary, non-profit hospitals.

Checks totaling $31,072,100 are being mailed to some 1,500 of the approximately 3,500 participating hospitals. These checks represent half the amount the 1,000 hospitals are due to receive.

One-half allotments already had been sent to about 1,000 other hospitals. The remaining 1,500 will get their half in July. All 3,500 will receive the second half of their allotments by about March of next year, the foundation said.

Kathy Bousquet Injured Waiting For School Bus

Eight year old Kathy Bousquet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Bousquet, 2 Sunset Drive, received painful but not serious injuries Tuesday morning while waiting for the school bus. The child is in the second grade at the Lincoln elementary school. Kathy and her neighbor schoolmates all wait for the school bus at the entrance of Sunset Drive in plain view of the Bousquet home that is located at the northeast corner. Mrs. Bousquet was watching the children from her window and saw her young daughter turn suddenly and unintentionally walk into the milk truck that was slowly approaching the drive.

The impact threw the child to the road and she sustained deep cuts on one arm and on her knee. In addition to a severe bump on the back of her head and gravel imbedded into her hands.

The driver of the milk truck had been driving slowly because of the children waiting for the school bus but wasn't prepared for one of the children running into the milk truck.

Kathy was taken to the Passavant hospital by her parents where her physician treated her injuries and she was able to return to her home for further recuperation.
